

---

Essay Outline (use this template as a guide for organizing your essay; adjust it as needed)

Title _____

Introduction (catches reader's interest; provides a context for the paper; develops from general to specific)

_____
_____

Thesis Statement (is usually last sentence in introduction; defines purpose of paper; often identifies sub-topics)

_____
_____

1st Support Paragraph (is often second strongest sub-topic)

Topic Sentence (connects to thesis; introduces main idea of paragraph; allows for elaboration of ideas)

Supporting detail #1 (supports and helps to prove topic sentence)

Example 1 (supplements supporting detail; provides most specific points)

Example 2

Supporting detail #2

Example 1

Example 2

Transition sentence (links current paragraph to next paragraph; provides flow throughout essay)

2nd Support Paragraph (is often least strong sub-topic)

Topic Sentence

Supporting detail #1

Example 1

Example 2

---

Supporting detail #2

---

Example 1

---

Example 2

---

Transition sentence

---

3rd Support Paragraph (is usually strongest sub-topic)

Topic Sentence

---

Supporting detail #1

---

Example 1

---

Example 2

---

Supporting detail #2

---

Example 1

---

Example 2

---

Transition sentence (links current paragraph to next paragraph; provides flow throughout essay)

---

Conclusion (restates thesis in different words; summarizes key points; ties paper together; provides a final thought)

---

---

---

References/Works Cited/Bibliography

- Cite all information that is not common knowledge and/or the writer's thought or opinion in the text of the paper
- Record the citation information directly onto the outline to avoid errors and omissions
- Provide a complete, detailed list of all sources at the end of the paper
- Follow a consistent citation format as per assignment requirements