A college transition program

For students with learning disabilities and attention deficit hyperactivity disorder (AD/HD)

What are we offering?

1. SPRING SESSION

Transition planning for students with learning disabilities and AD/HD

Control your future and get a head start on the new and exciting challenges that await you at college by taking advantage of the many supports offered by Durham College.

This program will help you:

- Get a head start in understanding post-secondary education;
- Become familiar with the CSD and it's staff;
- Explore the differences in disability support between high school and college;
- Learn about the importance of psycho-educational assessments and begin the process of obtaining your documentation; and
- Understand how supports are different at college.

2. SUMMER SESSION

Get prepared for college

This program will help you:

- Get oriented;
- Gain a better understanding of your disability and help you develop self-advocacy skills;
- Learn your rights and responsibilities;
- Gain better organization and time-management skills;
- Develop better study skills and learning strategies to prepare you for increased academic demands;
- Practise self-advocacy;
- Use assistive technology;
- Develop effective reading and writing strategies;
- Create a personal website about your disability using Dreamweaver and Photoshop;
- Find your way around campus;
- Discover resources for college success;
- Receive prizes and a free lunch; and
- Build friendships and develop your support network.
